GRIPSHOLM CASTLE, Sweden -- Children's rights activists from Canada and Rwanda joined the Dalai Lama's sister yesterday in accepting prizes recognizing efforts to improve the lives of youngsters worldwide.

Craig Kielburger, 23, of Thornhill received the top award, the annual World Children's Prize.

His charity has built more than 425 schools in 23 countries and helped provide clean water to more than 100,000 children.

The top three winners split about $114,000.
